

25th Annual Mining Country Challenge - 66 Mile Options
Saturday, March 18, 2017

Sponsored by Phoenix Metro Bicycle Club

Saddle up Pard'ner, it's time to hit the trail! And some trail it is!

We're not talking about some easy little jaunt into the desert on some mule with no name (apologies to America) with a pick and shovel slung over your shoulder, no, Sir-ee! However, when you see what you'll be climbing, you may want to reconsider that mule! Or maybe get a mountain goat!

Climb, climb, then climb some more. That's the Mining Country Challenge. It's not for everyone, but if you aspire to put your climbing abilities to the test, this really is the ride for you.

ABOUT THE RIDE:

The metric century route (actual distance 66 miles) starts in Old Town Superior in the heart of Arizona's mining country. From Superior, you'll go east, passing the Ray Mine, going 31 miles and stopping in Winkelman where there will be a sandwich lunch served. From there the route returns on the same path, again passing the Ray Road Mine. The route culminates in a climb called "The End of the World", a 1.5-mile climb that averages 11%. After you make it up that hill, you will think it is the end of the world! From the top, it is downhill into Superior, where you can celebrate the Apache Leap Mining Festival.

NOTE: This year's route is again changed due to road construction going on over the next several months. Only the Metric Century is supported this year, from Superior to Winkelman. If you'd like to get in extra miles, you can continue north out of Winkelman on AZ-77 and go as far as you like (or until you run into road construction) and return to Superior via the same route.
